

UCSF Principles of Community in Response to COVID-19 for UCSF Faculty and Staff

During the COVID-19 pandemic, we—as members of the UCSF community—affirm that we have an obligation to behave responsibly to prevent the spread of the coronavirus.

Our responsibility is two-fold:

- to protect ourselves, each other, our families, and our communities so that we can continue to fulfill our mission at UCSF; and,
- to serve as role models whose behavior encourages others to adhere to evidence-based public health guidelines that promote the health and safety of our broader communities.

Our responsibilities extend into our personal lives, including at a minimum:

- wearing a mask in public and when gathering with individuals outside our households;
- maintaining a physical distance of at least six feet in public and when gathering with individuals outside our households; and,
- following all public health orders and UCSF policies related to COVID-19.

We commit to adhering fully to current and future public health and emergency response directives and university policies related to the ongoing pandemic.
